Help Build a Walkable LA By Supporting the Mobility Plan Plus, Join Us For a Pasadena WalkLAvia This Sunday

Show Your Support For the City's Mobility Plan

After many years of work, the City is about to unveil a new vision for transportation in Los Angeles. We're looking for walkers to join us tomorrow to speak in favor of the Mobility Plan, which connects much-needed improvements for pedestrians with a better bike network and transit amenities. Most importantly, the Plan promotes complete streets that serve all people who travel on them, with special focus on the most vulnerable road users: children, the elderly, and bicyclists. Please join us at the meeting in Van Nuys City Hall at 8:30 AM tomorrow. If you can't make it, you can send an email of support. All details here

WalkLAvia in Pasadena This Sunday

We'll be walking at CicLAvia again this month in Pasadena on Sunday, May 31. Join us to explore the historic sites of Old Pasadena, South Lake, Raymond Avenue, and East Colorado Boulevard. We'll meet at the Del Mar Gold Line Station at 10am to learn about the century-old California Cycleway, then walk east to the end of the 3.5-mile route and back, ending at the Memorial Park Station. Sign the Change.org Petition for Two Sidewalks on the Hyperion Bridge

As you know, Los Angeles Walks has been advocating for two sidewalks on the Hyperion Bridge project connecting Silver Lake and Atwater Village. A group of neighbors have launched a Change.org to bring attention to the issue and show how many Angelenos support Option 3, the two-sidewalk option. Sign the petition and leave a comment to make your voice heard. Sign here

All stories from the 2014 issue of Footnotes, our annual newsletter, are now online! Learn how make walking better in your neighborhood and find out how street vending is becoming an important part of sidewalk life in LA. Contributions include essays by famous walkers like DJ Waldie and an interview with critic Christopher Hawthorne. We're hard at work putting together the next issue! See all the stories
